POLICE SEEKING SINGER'S FIANCE

Claim to Have Heard He Had Quarrelled with East Side Concert Hall Proprietor Who Was Mysteriously Shot.

The police of the Union Market station who have been investigating the mysterious shooting of Harry Schwartz, proprietor of the saloon and concert hall at No. 114 Avenue C, have come to the conclusion that it was the work of a jealous admirer of Helen Selop, a young actress, who was in the saloon at the time and is now under arrest as a witness.

The Selop girl lives at No. 30 East Fifty-fourth street with her father. She came nightly to Schwartz's concert hall, and frequently sat around the rear of the saloon until late at night. The girl has only been in the country a little over a year. She was a member of a travelling company in Hungary, and, so the police say, was engaged to a young man, a member of the same company. Six months ago, the police say, this man followed her here and was in the saloon on Saturday night a short time before the shooting. The police assert that he was jealous of everybody who spoke to the girl, and especially jealous of Schwartz, although so far as is known the relations between Schwartz and the girl were simply those of employer and employee.

According to witnesses, this young man and Schwartz had words on Saturday night, and Schwartz threw him out of the saloon. Whether he was one of the men who returned later, one of whom fired the shot, is not known. But the youth has disappeared and the police are trying to find him. Schwartz is in the hospital in a dangerous condition. A number of witnesses of the shooting are held by the police.

BELIEVE BOY KIDNAPPED.

Parents Vainly Seek Their Eleven-Year-Old Son.

The parents of eleven-year-old George A. Cole, of No. 418 Adams street, believe the boy has been kidnapped, as he disappeared more than a week ago and no trace has been found of him. His parents had forbidden him to sell papers, but last Monday afternoon he slipped away from home, played truant from school and was last seen selling evening papers.

The boy has light hair and a very fair skin, bright eyes and a large vaccination mark on his left arm. He wore a black suit, white waist and gray cap.

FORMER ACTRESS'S HUSBAND MISSING

Mrs. Mabelle Demarest Haunts Tenderloin in Cab Vainly Looking for "Dan," Who Suddenly Vanished from Home.

Mrs. Mabelle Demarest, of Bergenfield, N. J., who was well known as an actress in road companies under her maiden name of Mabelle Rothenberg, has been haunting the Tenderloin for a week past in a cab trying to find her husband, Daniel R. Demarest, who is only twenty-three years old, and who left her a week ago. Since he went away Mrs. Demarest has heard he was in the Tenderloin enjoying himself, and she has spent every night since driving around to the various resorts in a cab trying to find him.

Mrs. Demarest and her husband were married at the Little Church Around the Corner June 18, 1903. Demarest keeps a general store at Bergenfield, and is said to be well-to-do. After the marriage the couple lived in a handsome house near the store and Mrs. Rothenberg, Mrs. Demarest's mother, went to live there with them.

About six months ago James Tully, an old friend of the family, went to live with them, and Mrs. Demarest says that her trouble with her husband dates from his arrival.

On Sunday, Oct. 16, Mrs. Demarest says, there was a row, the upshot of which was that she ordered Tully from the house. He returned that night, she says, and got Demarest to harness his trotter, Pilot, and take him for a drive.

The two men drove to Englewood Hackmack and Patterson, and in the latter place sold the horse. From there they came on to this city, and Mrs. Demarest believed they have been here ever since.

Mrs. Demarest came here the day after her husband's disappearance, and tried to find him. She learned that he had been seen a number of times near the corner of Forty-second street and Sixth avenue.

In Cab She Watched for Him.

For hours at a time Mrs. Demarest has sat in a cab at this corner, heavily veiled, in the hope that her husband would put in an appearance, but she has seen nothing of him.

"There has been no trouble between me and my husband," she said to an Evening World reporter to-day. "We got along splendidly and our home was a very happy one until Mr. Tully came there. Mr. Tully had considerable influence over Dan, and I didn't like it. I spoke about it and Mr. Tully resented it. He finally made up my mind that it would be better for Dan and me to have Mr. Tully out of the house, and I ordered him to leave. He did so, but later got hold of Dan, and there you are. I have no doubt I will find my husband sooner or later, but I want to find him before he spends all his money. The horse he sold was a valuable one and he must have got considerable money for it."
